

IMPACTFUL ACTIVITY DESIGN

This is Impactful Activity Design (IAD) – an add-on to our popular Enhanced Facilitation Skills (EFS) workshop. We have always asserted that debriefing is easy, it is the design of the activity that will make or break a debrief.

This 1-Day workshop will focus on the Activity Design process that we introduced in the EFS workshop. We can't claim credit for this workshop because it was our EFS participants who shared that they would like to delve deeper into the activity design process that led to this workshop. Hence we will focus specifically on the design of experiential activities with peak experience(s) to increase your success during debriefing.

At the end of the workshop, learners will be able to :

- Design an experiential activity with a peak experience;
- Place triggers in the activity to bring about the peak experience;
- Use framing techniques to adjust the experience;
- Design suitable debriefing questions to meet the activity objective.

This workshop is an add-on to our popular EFS workshop. It will be suitable for learners who have completed our 2-Day EFS workshop as it will make use of content covered in that workshop. Learners who have not attended the EFS workshop should make sure that they are familiar with the concept of framing before attending this workshop. Eg. Flat, Flagging, Isomorphic, Front-loading, Fantasy framing etc.
